Senate Takes Up Norris Bill for Farm Electricity

Would Appropriate Billion Dollars During Next 10 Years

LIGHTS IN COUNTRY

Distribution to Those States Which Have Least Electricity

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The senate voted Tuesday to take up the Norris bill authorizing one billion dollars for a rural electrification program over a 10-year period.
The bill would authorize an annual appropriation of 100 million dollars until 1947.
A total of 70 millions would be allocated yearly for loans in states in the proportion the number of farms without electricity bears to the total in the United States without such service.

Two Bound Over in Theft of Timber

Monday's Police Docket Wound Up by Municipal Court Tuesday

Roosevelt and Dale Harris were held for action on the grand jury Tuesday when arraigned before Municipal Judge W. K. Lemley on charges of cutting and stealing timber.
Bond for each was fixed at $200. Charges were brought by Mrs. Ellen Bryant.
John Jimerson was acquitted Tuesday on charges of possessing illegal liquor.
Bill Chamberlain pleaded guilty to a petit larceny charge and was fined $25 and sentenced to a day in jail. He was charged with stealing a case of pineapple from Piggly Wiggly store.
Four other cases scheduled for trial Tuesday were continued until March 9. There will be no municipal court next week, because of chancery court at Washington, it was announced from the city hall.
Tuesday's session of municipal court concluded a long docket in which more than 20 cases were disposed of Monday.

13 Dead as Heat Loosens Up Snow

Giant Snowslide Roars Down on Mining Camp, Killing Three

KANSAS CITY.—(AP)—Snowslides, floods and grinding ice floes—loosed by warming winds that swept a major part of the nation—took a toll of at least 13 lives Monday.
The same winds, rushing in to fill low pressure areas over western Nebraska and northern Wisconsin, scooped soil from bare fields in the South-west creating scenes reminiscent of last year's blighting series of dust storms.
Melting river ice and headwater snows combined with forecasts of watershed rains to carry flood threats to a dozen states.
The historic Camp Bird mining property eight miles from Duray, Colo., was the scene of the greatest reported disaster. A giant snowslide roared down a mountainside, engulfing the plant where 45 men were at work and killing three. Many more were reported injured. A rescue party of 30 on horseback fought 10-foot snowdrifts toward the scene.

500 Flood Refugees Flee in California

Long-Frozen Rivers, Breaking Up, Cause Anxiety in Midwest

By the Associated Press
Flood waters flowed six to ten feet deep over thousands of acres of California farm land Tuesday, while four other states watched ice-choked rivers anxiously.
North and south of Sacramento, Calif., rivers swollen by 16 consecutive days of rain drove some 500 persons from their homes. Aviators reported that the flood area was 100 miles long and from half a mile to seven miles wide.

Game, Park Groups Fight Over $5,000

McCall and Bailey Quarrel Over Proposed Trans- fer of Funds

LITTLE ROCK.—Controversy over a proposed transfer of $5,000 from funds of the State Game and Fish Commission for construction of a lake at Petit Jean State Park by the State Park Commission, sought under Act 194 of 1935, continued Monday with Attorney General Carl E. Bailey, ex-officio Park Commission chairman, and H. Grady McCall, Game and Fish Commission secretary, speaking for opposing forces. Mr. McCall also is ex-officio secretary of the Park Commission.
Declaring that "the entire game and fish laws should be repealed" if funds paid in for "the specific purpose of the protection and propagation of game and fish are to be continually transferred to other funds," Mr. McCall issued a statement defending recourse to the courts as the only way to determine whether funds to build the lake should be transferred.
Mr. Bailey charged that opposition to the transfer of funds "has its inception in political animus toward me" and predicted that "sportsmen of the state, for whom such tender interest is pretended, may become actively curious about just how the money paid for hunting and fishing license heretofore has been spent."
Suit to restrain transfer of the money by state Treasurer Earl Page was filed in Pulaski Chancery Court last week by the Game and Fish Commission and Dr. W. F. Smith, taxpayer.
As chairman of the Park Commission, Mr. Bailey filed an intervention Saturday asking dissolution of a temporary restraining order and seeking to have the transfer of funds required of the state treasurer.

DR. JOHN LUKE, country doctor in the little north woods settle ment of Moose town, receives an emergency call to the lumber mill when MIKE SCANLAN, lum berman, is crushed under a fallen log. Both of Mike's legs are seri ously injured.

Mike Scanlan didn't die. Nor did he lose the sturdy legs that had meant a living, life itself, to him. Dr. Luke's practiced and sensitive fingers served for X-ray, and Mike was soon en cased in two mummy-like casts up to the hips. Far into the night worked Dr. Luke, to get Mike comfortably in stalled in his boarding house.

Succumbs in Little Rock Hospital—Funeral Is Held Tuesday

Mrs. Lilla Bell, 59, of Blevins, died Monday in a Little Rock hospital after a lengthy illness. A Hope Furniture company ambulance returned her body to Blevins late Monday.
Funeral services were held from the family home at 3 p. m. Tuesday, conducted by the Rev. J. L. Williams, minister of Washington. The body was taken to McCaskill for burial.
Surviving are two sons, Alton L. Bell and E. M. Bell, and a daughter, Lorene Bell.

Mills Radio Car Capsizes on Gravel

Victor Cobb and Tilman Bearden Escape With- out Injury

Striking a deep hole that had been hidden in a freshly graded roadbed, an automobile driven by Victor Cobb of Hope, overturned late Monday on the Prescott-Blevins highway, three miles northwest of Prescott.
The car was owned by W. A. J. Mills of Hope. Damage was estimated at $175. Riding in the car with Cobb, radio service representative of the Mills concern, was Tilman Bearden. Both escaped injury.

DR. JOHN LUKE, country doctor in the little north woods settle ment of Moose town, receives an emergency call to the lumber mill when MIKE SCANLAN, lum berman, is crushed under a fallen log. Both of Mike's legs are seri ously injured.

NURSE KENNEDY assists the doctor as Mike malls, "I don't wanta live if you cut my legs off!"
Moose town is in a state of ex-citement because the season's work at the mill is ending. Next day the last boat south will depart, taking the crew of timbermen home for the winter.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Chapter II
Mike Scanlan didn't die. Nor did he lose the sturdy legs that had meant a living, life itself, to him. Dr. Luke's practiced and sensitive fingers served for X-ray, and Mike was soon en cased in two mummy-like casts up to the hips. Far into the night worked Dr. Luke, to get Mike comfortably in stalled in his boarding house.

To soften the blow of missing the morning's boat and the dreary prospect of long months in bed instead, there was the promise of a small radio. What if Mike's pay for the season was securely enough for his board and keep for the winter, let alone for pay Dr. Luke for saving his life and his legs? The radio would be there any way. Dr. Luke would be the only one who could tell you how it got there. But it's not likely that he would.

So by the following day, Mike Scanlan was as happy as a map with both legs in casts can be. He could hear the steamer whistle echoing across the hills. For the river boat, "North Star," waits for no man when she sails from Moose town on her last trip in autumn to the southland. She dares not wait. Soon, all too soon, the winter de-scends, and Moose town is isolated, the waters frozen, the roads wellnigh impassable except for sleighs and dog-teams.

The "North Star's" whistle drew to the boat-landing everybody who could walk at all. Three or four lumbermen on deck, all a little drunk, were work-ing away at barroom harmony that was less accurate than heartfelt. Cat-calls, whistles and boos greeted the effort.

Constable Ogden was there, his jaw doubly swollen by the recent tooth extraction and a fresh quid of "plug." He had a couple of Indians in tow, with claims against one of the lum-bermen leaving on the boat. Dr. Luke and Nurse Kennedy, intent on plac-ing last-minute orders for precious med-ical supplies, were at the purser's win-dow.

"Bring us back some aspirin," re-minded Nurse Kennedy, running her finger down a long list.

"How much?" inquired the purser.

"About a bushel."

"And iodine?"

"How much?"

"About a gallon..."

A lumberman elbowed his way up to Dr. Luke.

"I was looking for you, Doc. Wanted to pay you."

Down into breeches pockets went a grimy hand, emerging with several greasy bills, and a handful of small silver.

"Five-sixty, five eighty-five, five-ninety-five, six!" he counted as the coins dropped.

"That all you got, son?" inquired Dr. Luke, with a wary smile.

"The youth grinned. 'Just made it didn't I, Doc?'" he commented.

With a furtive look about him, Dr. Luke pressed the money quickly into the grimy hand. "Keep it," he whis-pered. "You'll need it 'outside.' Pay me next year." And suddenly the doctor had vanished into the crowd, leaving behind him an embarrassed youngster with a fistful of coins.

Soon, however, Dr. Luke was back at the purser's window. The last op-portunity to make sure of precious medical supplies was too important to overlook a single bet. The whistle was blowing again in final warning as the purser chirped, "Anything else, Doc?"

"I guess that's all," speculated Dr. Luke. "Oh, yes, a pair of baby socks." He grinned in a mockgrin-ning manner. "More government stuff—as if I couldn't weigh a baby in my hands! Shucks! Let 'em go this time. I'll get 'em next year. So long, George. Have a nice winter!"

"Got enough detective stories till spring?"

"I guess so. Everybody left me something, detective stories, movie magazines, those confession things. If they ever give out—well, I can always read Pickwick Papers again!"

A chorus of good-natured hoots from the waiting lumbermen on deck drew their attention.

"Hey, papai!"

"Come on, stork!"

9-Vote Majority for Thorn Law in Hempstead Upheld

Official Canvass Gives
896 for the "Wets" and
887 for "Drys"

STATE DISPENSARY

Star Publisher Plans to Take Fight Into Legislative Campaign

Hempstead county's nine-vote ma-jority for the Thorn package-liquor store law in the local option election February 18 was confirmed by the official canvass Monday night at the courthouse in Washington.

The official tabulation by the elec-tion commissioners, John Barrow, L. A. Carlson and J. W. Wimberly, gave:

For the present law 896; for a return to bone-dry prohibition 887.

All five absentee ballots were thrown out because of the voters' failure either to have them notarized or to sign the secret duplicate ballot.

The State Dispensary

The Associated Press carried the fol-lowing statement from Alex. H. Wash-burn, of The Star, in Tuesday morn-ing's newspapers:

"I owe it to the people of Hempstead county to explain in their behalf that this was no wet-dry fight, and therefore it is not a wet victory."

"The outstanding friends of temper-ance in America for two generations have been John D. Rockefeller and his son, John D. Jr., who helped fi-nance the Anti-Saloon League and the successful campaign to write the Eighteenth amendment into the con-stitution. When nonenforcement and corruption compelled John D. Rocke-feller Jr. to abandon prohibition and declare for repeal, he outlined the next best thing, which he said was a publicly-owned dispensary system."

The Iowa Law

"Such a system was adopted by 14 states, among them Iowa, which puts one package store in a town and fur-bishes either advertising or store-win-dow display of liquor. Governor Fel-trill proposed, such a system to the Arkansas legislature one year ago, and bills supporting it were introduced in both houses."

"The dispensary plan was opposed by the Arkansas Anti-Saloon League and other alleged temperance advo-cates. I made the fight against the Hempstead county prohibitionists this month a mandate for enactment of the state dispensary plan that was killed in the legislature. I am going on in the August primaries in an attempt to pledge the Hempstead county leg-islative delegation to the Rockefeller dispensary plan of which Iowa's is an ideal example."

Ritchie Mourned by His Maryland

Famed Former Governor Succumbs to Apoplexy at Age of 60

BALTIMORE.—(AP)—Flags fluttered to half staff over the entire state a few hours after the death Monday of former Gov. Albert C. Ritchie. Both Democrats and Republicans paid tribute to his executive ability and his adherence to the principles he thought right.

The body will lie in state Wednes-day at Christ Protestant Episcopal church. Services will be held there at 3 p. m. Wednesday. Bishop Edward T. Heffernan and the Rev. S. Thorne Sparkman, rector of the church, will officiate. Burial will be in the Green-mountain cemetery plot of his mother and father.

The career of the 60-year-old former governor was ended at 1:45 a. m. by a stroke of apoplexy. The attack came as he was recovering from a long period of ill health.

Despite Ritchie's opposition to his administration, President Roosevelt spoke of him as a personal friend.

Ethiopians Claim Another Victory

Assert Their Troops Have Destroyed Italian Base in Eritrea

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia.—(AP)—The Ethiopian government announced Tuesday that its troops invaded the Italian colony of Eritrea February 19, destroying an Italian base.

The purported victory appeared to be a continuation of their northward thrust by Ethiopian troops in which the government said 608 Italians had been killed in two previous clashes.

The Whisky Enforcement Law

An Editorial

SECTION 9 of ordinance No. 488 of the City of Hope, which is the local enforcement act under the Thorn state liquor law, provides as follows:

"It is hereby declared to be for the best interest of the public that liquor dealers be prevented from selling liquor to persons known to be habitual drunkards and to this end it is hereby ordained that an habitual drunkard within the meaning of this ordinance shall be 'Any person who has been convicted of drunkenness three times in any twelve-month period; and said twelve-month period to begin with the date upon which this ordinance is ap-proved.'"

"It shall hereafter be the duty of the chief of police of the City of Hope to keep a separate register (which shall be at all reasonable hours subject to public inspection) of every person convicted of drunkenness in the City of Hope, or in the circuit court of Hempstead county. Such register shall show the number of times any person has been so convicted. A BULLETIN CONTAINING THE NAMES OF EACH AND EVERY PERSON CONVICTED THREE TIMES WITHIN A YEAR OF DRUNKENNESS SHALL BE MAILED ONCE EACH MONTH, IF NECESSARY, BY THE CHIEF OF POLICE TO EACH LIQUOR DEALER LICENSED BY THE CITY."

That ordinance has been the law of this community for nearly a year.

NO LIST OF HABITUAL DRUNKARDS HAS EVER BEEN FILED WITH THE WHISKY STORES DURING THAT TIME!

The City of Hope is charged not only with responsi-bility for its own people on the whisky question, but for the people of all the other communities of the county.

If Washington, or Spring Hill, or Patmos or any other Hempstead community is at any time troubled by habitual drunkards all that they have to do to stop such persons from making purchases at the Hope whisky stores is to file the names with the Hope police.

THE MONTHLY BULLETINS ARE GOING TO BE POSTED IN THE WHISKY STORES—OR THE PEOPLE WILL BE TOLD THAT THEIR OFFICERS HAVE FAILED TO ENFORCE THE LAW.

The Thorn package law is not this newspaper's first choice, and we are going ahead with our state dispensary fight—but in the meantime what law we have must be enforced.

Hope's city ordinance, already quoted in part, pro-vides that any whisky store selling to a drunkard in vi-o-lation of the police bulletin shall be fined from $50 to $300 for the first offense; and for the second offense shall not only be fined but lose its license, at the dis-cretion of the Hope City Council.

Charcoal Car, on Fire, Brought Here

City Firemen Extinguish Blaze—Two Grass Fires Also Reported

A carload of charcoal was discover-ed ablaze on an L. & A. freight train en route from Hope to Shreveport Monday night and was rushed to Hope where firemen fought the blaze for two hours before extinguishing it. Damage to the car was estimated by railroad officials at $75. Damage to the charcoal which was in sacks, was not estimated, pending further investigation.

Officials said Tuesday that they had not determined the cause of the fire, which was discovered at Coler, six miles south of Hope.

The Hope fire department reported a grass fire on West Fourth street at 2 p. m. Monday. No damage resulted.

At 11:45 a. m. Tuesday the fire de-partment answered an alarm on East Second street. It was a grass fire. There was no damage.

Bankston to Head Monticello A. M.

Elected President Over 25 Applicants From Neigh- boring States

MONTICELLO, Ark.—Prof. Marvin S. Bankston, 42, head of the Agricul-tural Department of Arkansas A. & M. College, was elected president of the college by the board of directors Monday.

Mr. Bankston was chosen over 25 or 30 applicants from Mississippi, Tennessee, Alabama, Missouri, Michigan and Louisiana, in a surprise meet-ing of the board, which had announced in an unofficial meeting in Pine Bluff Saturday that it was "in no hurry to select a president" as the trustee want-ed to be "sure to get the right man for the place."

Dr. Charles D. Johnson, chairman of the Executive Committee and actu-al president of the college, was the first to congratulate the newly elected president when the board announced its decision at 2:15 p. m.

Mr. Bankston's new duties will be-gin officially Wednesday when Dr. Johnson will turn the keys of the college over to him in a special as-sembly of students and citizens c South-east Arkansas.

Most Important Naval Move Since the World
War, British Say

U. S. ENVOYS SILENT

Proposal Would Allow Yearly Exchange of Naval Construction Plans

LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—Great Britain anticipating failure for the four-pow-er naval conference, has proposed an Anglo-German-American naval agree-ment, it was learned Tuesday from authoritative sources.

Members of the United States dele-gation, asked to confirm the report, refused to discuss it.

High naval sources described the proposal as one of the most important affecting the United States, Great Britain and Germany since the World war.

The agreement would limit sizes, types of ships and guns, among the three countries concerned, and would provide for an annual exchange of in-formation on construction programs.

Oil Embargo Dodged
LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—Anthony Eden presented a plan Monday for a uni-versal oil embargo, for a collective security pact, and for a foreign sec-etary to the House of Commons, but failed to satisfy government opponents on the more immediate question of an oil embargo against Italy.

Before packed galleries, including European diplomats, Eden defended rearmament and emphasized that Great Britain must be strong and fear-less in taking the leadership to pre-vent a world war.

"Our final objective," he told the House, must be a worldwide system of collective security, which embraces all nations in an authority unchal-lenged and unchallengeable.

"In what was interpreted as an ef-fort to reassure Germany, Eden de-clared 'the British government will have no lot or part in encirclement' (France's foreign policy is based on encirclement of Germany by a 'ring of steel' of allied powers.)"

The Truth About Diet

FRED MORRIS FISHER
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Some persons seem to think that temperament is an important factor in eating overweight, and that stout people are easy-going and quiet. An investigation made by the writer revealed that 10 per cent of those persons who are overweight are excitable and nervous, and that only 10 per cent were phlegmatic.

In fact, an exciting person appears to be much more fat-prone than an excitable person. Temperament is important in reducing weight, but it is important that the point of view of the will power of the person concerned in following a strictly scientific reducing diet.

As women gain maturity, have children, or approach the grueling period of the end of middle age, they acquire a special tendency to gain weight. Men in general are more active physically for a longer period of time than the women.

Men spend more time in the open air, eat more proteins and less sugars, and are less likely to try weight reducing just to look better. Following childbirth, a woman is likely to rest and eat more than she did previously. This explains the tendency at such times to overweight.

The way to reduce is to find out how many calories you spend daily, and then to eat 500 calorie less. This will reduce your weight about one pound a week.

There are many simple procedures to try. A cup of clear, hot coffee will furnish about 10 calories; addition of two tablespoons of thick cream and one lump of sugar will raise the value of a cup of coffee to 150 calories.

Because iced coffee usually is taken with more cream and sugar, it will give you more calories and fattening substances than plain, hot coffee. A large serving of lettuce with a little vinegar and with grated cheese will reach about 100 calories. Addition of a small amount of oil to the lettuce will double or triple its calories.

Sometimes the persons who want to reduce will say, "I take nothing more than a bowl of half-and-half with crackers." This sounds reasonable.

Today's Health Question. Q.—Is there any exercise or other cure for knock-knees in a child of 3 years? The condition was not caused by rickets.

A.—By the age of 3, the bones have become firm in most children and probably little can be accomplished by manipulation or apparatus in correction of knock-knees. In later years, if the deformity is still pronounced, it can be corrected by a surgical operation. The important thing now is to see a competent orthopedic surgeon.

able, but 20 ounces of milk with a half pint of cream, and 20 to 30 crackers, taken daily, will supply more calories than a well-selected luncheon of the type that I have previously described.

Doctors usually recommend reduction in weight for persons who distinctly are too big for their height, for those who have changed from outdoor or muscular occupations to sedentary or indoor work, and for those who have high blood pressure or heart disturbances, to which added weight is a distinct hazard.

When you begin to diet, you will have pain from hunger. At such times, drink plenty of water or any of the other beverages on the diet list. Cut down on the salts, spices, and condiments, because they stimulate the flow of gastric juice and increase appetite.

While you are reducing weight strenuously, keep in close contact with your doctor so he may detect the appearance of any alarming symptoms and stop the dieting before it does harm.

A Book a Day

By Bruce Catton

"The Hurricane" brings Charles Nordhoff and James Hall back to the war with a new story of the sea—and a tense, exciting story it is, too.

They give up the British Navy this time and tell about a small Polynesian island community which happens to be in the path of a terrific hurricane. The hurricane arrives as the final complicating factor in an already complicated drama of human emotions.

A young Polynesian has been jailed in Tahiti for striking a white man. He escapes, is recaptured, escapes again, is recaptured once more, and again breaks for freedom. En route he smacks down a prison guard; the guard has a weak heart and is killed by the blow; and the young islander finds himself a fugitive murderer.

In a flimsy canoe he makes his way across the open sea to his home island, the locale of the story. The French administrator there learns of his presence, orders his arrest—and then comes the hurricane.

The authors have done a fine job of describing the fearful power of this storm. A South Sea hurricane is not merely a high wind; it is a complete and final catastrophe, driving the sea clear across the low atolls and wiping out whole communities. The mounting tension of the storm is presented here in a way to keep you on the edge of your chair.

The book is also a fine study of Polynesian village life. The natives are sympathetically and intelligently presented, and the story as a whole is a worthy successor to the great "Bounty" series.

Published by Little, Brown & Co., it sells for $2.50.

Your Children

By Olive Roberts Barton

Can you cure the cry-baby? I don't believe you can. How about yourself? When you have to cry, cry, cry, cry! The only difference is that you don't have to, often. You have other ways of expressing distress. But once you feel tears coming they come, that is all.

"Don't you dare to cry," says mother, stamping her foot. Johnny stops and sniffs, perhaps. The reason is that fear has stepped in and jolted the other 'bad emotion' out of the way. Then he begins to think that he had better go and hunt up Charles who was calling a minute ago. Thought follows fear and tears, and both are gone. But these substitutions are not cures. Five minutes later Johnny may be bawling about something else.

The cry-baby is a problem. He is also a result. A result of himself, partly, because of over-sensitivity, and also of self-pity that was allowed to start, dark knows when, and grew with the years.

Sympathy Starts Flood
All children who weep easily are to be pitied, but it is best to keep it a secret. To sympathize only opens the flood gates wider.

It is a terribly hard thing to do when one's heart is aching for the unhappy one, but it is the kindest thing in the end.

No one can help the chronic crier but himself. He wants to help himself, but he would die rather than let it be known. What he does not want is to be talked about, especially if he is past babyhood.

Perhaps he is trying to be a sport and hold back the tears. You notice it and say, "Darling, I'm so sorry. It is just too bad." That's the very thing he hoped you wouldn't say, because it breaks the dyke he was so bravely trying to hold up. If, on the other hand, you had kept silent or walked away, leaving him to his own strength, he might have mastered the impulse by tremendous effort.

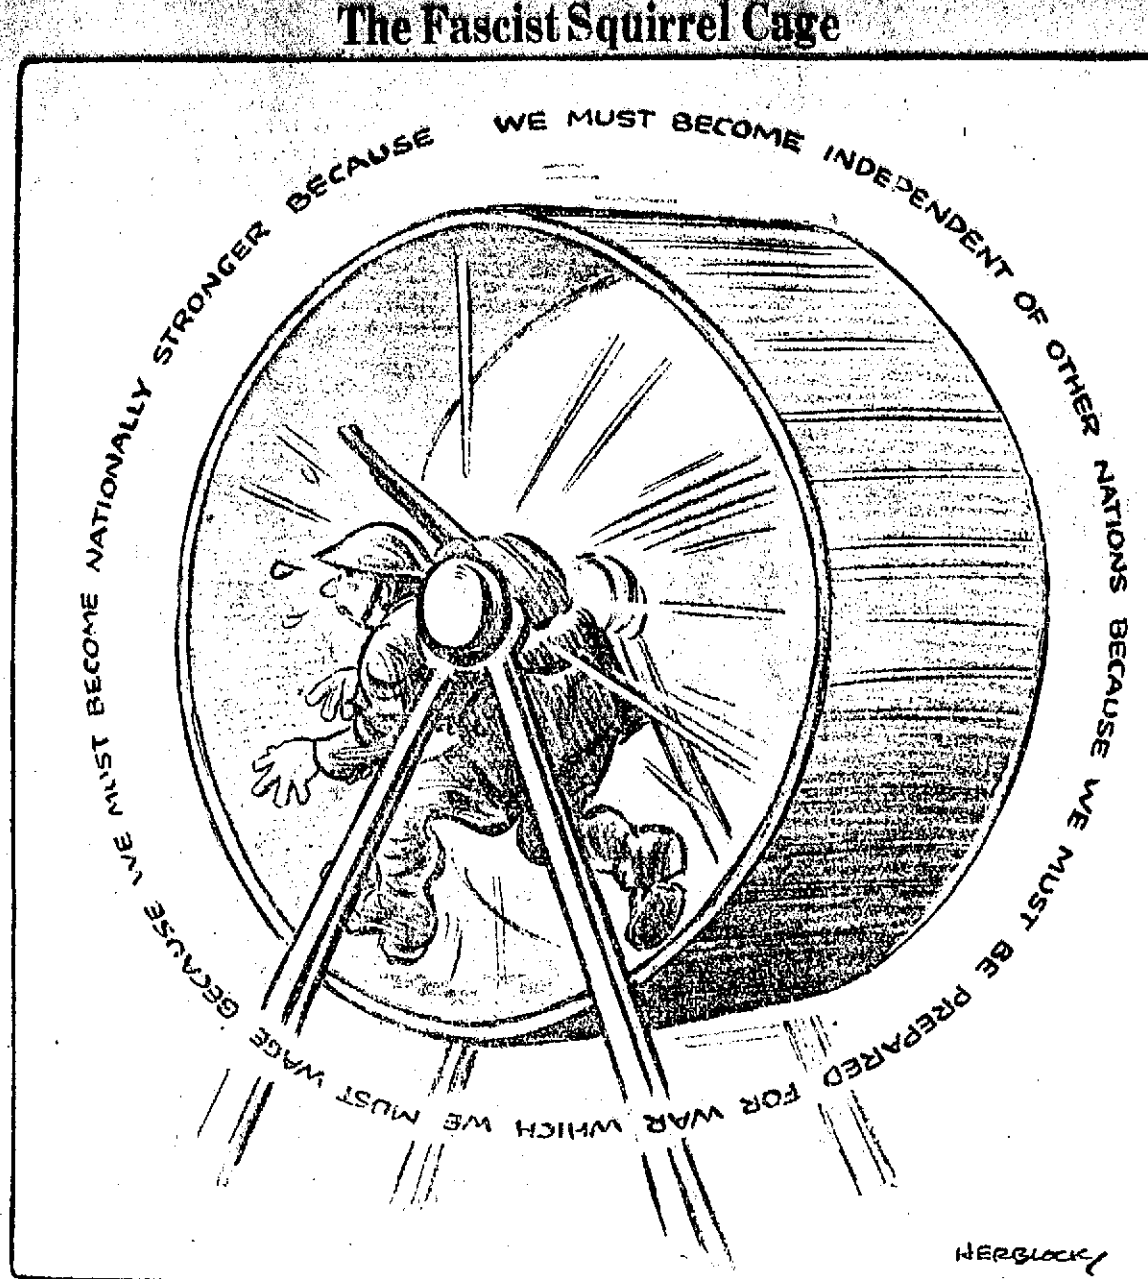

Seldom Cries From Anger
There are tears of rage and tears of sorrow. The easy-weeper seldom cries from anger. He just carries his feelings on his sleeve, that's all, and they are easily scraped. As time goes on, he will increase his world and be so busy that the crying episodes will diminish. He, or she, may always cry easily; many people do. But control comes with the years, or at least a substitution for tears.

The tendency may be partly inherited. It may be the result of one or more mysterious events early in life, unsuspected at the time. There may be only one such child in a family of five and all have had the same training and experiences, or apparently so. Therefore it is hard to understand. But don't be impatient with the one whose lachrymal glands over-produce. Neither pet him nor scold him. Indeed the less accent put on his weakness the better. He will cure himself to a certain extent if his life is normally happy and busy, that is.

Cities May Plant Forests
MONTESANO, Wash.—(AP)—Cities of Grays Harbor county are considering creation of a series of municipally owned forests, with the thought that sale of timber will reduce their tax burden.

Military Highway Urged
SAN FRANCISCO.—(AP)—A number of California counties bordering the Pacific have united to petition congress to build an ocean shore highway. It is urged partly as a military defense measure.

Potatoes are tubers, radishes are roots, onions are bulbs, cabbages are leaves, tomatoes are fruit, and beans are seeds.

During the reign of Edward II of England a law barred "the outrageous and excessive multitude of dishes of persons of inferior rank beyond what their station requires." Different meats and vegetables were cooked and served on the same plate to outwit the law, and stew was born.

CRUISE TO NOWHERE

BEGIN HERE TODAY
JANE WESTON feels her dreams have come true when she sets out on a three weeks' ocean cruise accepted in payment for the salary due her when the magazine for which she worked as typist suspended publication.

On board the ship she meets handsome DIRK STROM, expert and jumper, as well as Miss Lane, the trip was a gift to him from the parents of a child whose life he saved.

Dirk introduces Jane to his friend, SNOWSHOES, a detective. Others on board are NORA LANE, famous actress and owner of the Kokinor diamond; wealthy, eccentric MADAME DORRIS; DUKE LENO, and MANNIE JACKSON, blackmailer; TINO ROSSI, opera singer; and MARSH and LINDA BAYES, show entertainers.

Dirk and Jane spend much of their time together. Then a misunderstanding comes between them.

Dirk meets Nora Lane and escorts her to a concert entertainment in which the ship's passengers are to take part. Miss Lane appears on the program but Tina Rossi, with Jane, refuses to sing. Later Dirk overhears a romantic scene between Jane and Tina.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XII

JANE did not go directly to the bar. She went to her state-room to repair imaginary ravages to her face and hair, and Tina waited for her outside in the passageway. She glanced in the mirror, and stood back in wonder. Her face had a radiance it had never owned before.

For a moment her thoughts drifted back to the chill fall winds in the city, back to her jobless state. But she banished these now, as easily as she powdered a shiny spot off her nose.

The Bahamas were right out there under that gorgeous moon! She had a romantic figure in tow.

Tina didn't seem impatient when she came out to join him. Together they made their way into the Venetian Room.

Last night she had made a spectacular entry into this room, alone, after her quarrel with Dirk Strom. But tonight she felt keenly this moment of personal triumph. The heady wine of Tina's flattery and his flowery words had gone to her head!

They stopped at the bar, and Jane sat on a high stool where her reddish head glistened under the lights. At her side Tina made a distinguished appearance.

To Jane it seemed that everyone had merely come on from the ballroom to the room. Looking about the room she saw Dirk seated with Nora Lane and the detective at a corner table. They seemed quiet, subdued.

Dirk bowed to her slightly, and she nodded in return. It was the first friendly exchange they had passed since their quarrel last night.

DIRK had turned to Nora Lane again. He was afraid the actress had been aware of his distraction over the newcomers in the bar.

But Miss Lane was busily engaged in talk with Snowshoes. Snowshoes asked her about the Kokinor diamond and she smiled. At the same time she let a hand slip to her throat where the Kokinor usually nestled, and she seemed almost surprised not to discover it there. Dirk saw her flush.

"I was so distracted I forgot to wear it tonight," she said. "I'd feel better." Snowshoes said, "If you'd hand it over to the ship's purser for the rest of this cruise."

Her returning smile was one of sincere gratitude. "It's nice to have you both think about my welfare. I have two friends on board," she said happily. "Tell me more about that fantastic numbers racket. I think that is the worst of them all."

"If there were a few more indignant persons we could do something about it. But we Americans, since the Spanish-American War, seem to have lost the power of getting indignant over anything."

"It's outrageous!" the actress added.

"We haven't outsmarted the mobs yet. The numbers racket gets the little change, and now the jewel thieves are organized to take care of our new zeal for hoarding precious jewels. You might be interested to know how carefully they work the whole country. A diamond merchant was forced off the road outside a small Mississippi town last week. They found his riddled body in a ditch. The haul in diamonds was forty thousand dollars. The old-time diamond salesman, amiable cuss, carried them around in a leather wallet, just as Diamond Jim Brady did. But that's all changed in the last six months. Jewel salesmen make the rounds in armored cars. Women won't wear their jewels outside the house. You'd think precious stones had become the only medium of exchange."

"To get at the jewels which belong to the Sultan of Hyderabad," Dirk put in, smiling, "you would have to pass through dens of cobras, saber-toothed tigers and fire."

SNOWSHOES scoffed. "One of our monocular jewel thieves would charm the cobras, make the tigers purr like pussy cats and put out the fire. They'd get the diamonds if they found the cave. They're clever."

"And you think we have them with us on this cruise?" Nora Lane smiled at him, as one always smiles at a man's pet alarm.

"Never can tell. You see them in Paris. You see them in Amsterdam. You see them most frequently in de luxe resort hotels, where the rich congregate and wear their jewels. I've seen hundreds of them in my career as a hotel detective. We caught one with the goods at Lake Placid last winter. He was posing as a Belgian count. He wormed his way into everybody's confidence, and on the night of the Carnival ball at the Lake Placid Club, when guests were in fancy costume and naturally did not wear their jewels, 60 people were robbed. A housemaid caught him in the fifty-first room and locked him in. When he tried to escape from a window he fell and broke his arm. We caught him."

Nora Lane said, "I will be more careful with my diamonds in the future. I didn't know jewel thieves were so prevalent. Why, a few years ago, you couldn't sell a diamond! They were drugs on the market."

"But not any more. People are jittery about gold and silver money today—unsettled conditions. Nothing seems safe to some people but a store of precious jewels."

"Persons in the public eye are more subject to attack than others," the actress advised. "They are publicized. Everybody knows their personal habits, where they lived and where they travel. I must admit I was rather unnerved by that photographer on deck this afternoon."

"You had a right to be!" Snowshoes put in. "Since the snatch racket fell under G-men blows, blackmailing has got its nose under the wire. Every yegg that thinks he has something on another person tries to put on the squeeze."

"I've been subject to extortion threats for a long time. My name is in the papers too much. This person—Mannie Jackson, as you call him—may have meant no harm. But I suppose I've become a little jittery on the subject. My nerves—"

Snowshoes said laughingly, "You need a bodyguard, Miss Lane!"

Nora Lane looked at him and without hesitation said, "You're hired!"

Snowshoes laughed out loud. "No, no!" he said. "I'm on my first vacation in 20 years. I was only joking—"

SHE seemed terribly in earnest, and Dirk decided to take her side. At the thought of protection she seemed to be happier.

"I'd like to see you undertake that job, Snowshoes," Dirk said. "Really, I'm a little afraid about Miss Lane's safety myself. Maybe I've got the jitters, too, but—"

"Oh, please, do!" she added. "I'm sure you wouldn't leave me with this feeling now. I do believe I am in danger. Every instant in me warns—"

Snowshoes was weakening. He was old-fashioned enough to be moved by the thought of a lady in distress. "I'm not getting any rest, anyway," he said. "Gamblers, tough-looking customers all around."

Dirk laughed heartily. "I am a woman of experience," Nora Lane went on. "I've had a bodyguard before, and I am prepared to discuss the business end of it. I would be grateful to you if you'd undertake the job, and I'd like to quote your fee—three hundred dollars for the duration of this cruise."

Snowshoes waved a hand, as if he hadn't expected to be paid for anything, but Miss Lane was insistent. "On no other terms," she said firmly.

"If I take the job," Snowshoes said tentatively, "the first thing we'll do is to go straight to Suite AA and get the Kokinor diamond. We'll take it to the purser to be locked up in the ship's safe for the remainder of this cruise."

He admonished her gently, smiling. "You ought never to leave a jewel like that locked up in a room, hotel, private or stateroom. I can take care of any blackmail or extortion threats. All right, let's go."

Nora Lane stood up. Already the harassed look on her face seemed to have faded away. She was no longer tense. She felt safe in his hands.

She looked at Dirk, and said, "I hope you'll forgive me for wanting to retire. I've enjoyed the evening so much, and don't let me spoil your fun. I know you'll want to stay in the bar. Goodnight!" she said, and gave him her hand.

As Nora Lane and the detective went out of the bar, Dirk crossed the room toward Jane. He approached her smiling, wondering what kind of reception he'd get at her hands tonight.

Building of Chinese Line Is Adventure

Bandits and Disease Rival Perils of Old American Wild West

NANKING, China.—(AP)—The Americans who blazed the trail of the "iron horse" across the plains and mountains of the Wild West faced no greater dangers than those overcome by the men who have just completed the first railroad in China to be surveyed, engineered and financed entirely by Chinese.

None of these modern Chinese railroad pioneers bit the dust with Indian arrows quivering in their breast, but 100 of their numbers were killed of disease before the line was ready from Kiangse province in the heart of central China to Shanghai on the coast.

So great was the bandit menace in 1934, when road and chainmen set out to survey the right of way across the mountains of Chekiang and Kiangse provinces, that block houses had to be built.

Hardly had the bandits been cleared from the area than torrential summer rains swept away sections of the road bed and bridge foundations.

The success of the new line has inspired the national ministry of railways to project extensions which will reach the western borders of the country and give China its first transcontinental railroad.

Hollywood

By Paul Harrison

HOLLYWOOD—Short takes: Mary Pickford, going to Europe and may do a United Artists picture at Alexander Korda's establishment. Surest way to tell when Miss Pickford is hankering for a job of acting is when she goes about saying: "I never do another picture as long as I live."

Nomadic Marlene Dietrich has moved six times in five years, and after this picture she'll move to Paris. Sorriest to see her go will be the studio crews and hairdressers, who think she's swell. Not long ago she heard that a man in the property department was about to lose his home for taxes.

Miss Dietrich, who has been moaning about the size of her own taxes, paid his.

Bitterest bawling-out that Leslie Howard ever received in his life, probably, was delivered by a busy studio electrician whose bicycle Howard had borrowed for a joy-ride. The actor, whose directors dread to reprimand, took it and made a gracious little apology.

Definition. Hollywood, says Lyle Talbot, is a place where people who live in glass houses shouldn't.

Vacation on Location. Choicest screen assignment: Melvin Douglas, Mary Astor, and company have taken over all Lake Tahoe tavern, and almost every foot of "Bless Their Hearts" will be filmed there. It's a story about a snowbound couple.

Tala Birell, who for years has been handicapped by a likeness to Greta Garbo, becomes a star again, and in a new type of role—as a woman doctor.

Hollywood Snubbed. There's an airline hostess named Helen Hawkins. She once had a passenger named Ernst Lubitsch. Said he: "Why don't you come over and take a screen test? I believe I could almost promise that you'd be accepted."

Miss Hawkins said no, thanks, she prefers flying. The only Hollywoodian who really knew how she felt about it was Will Rogers. He, too, mentioned a screen career to Miss Hawkins. When she refused, he said, well, he didn't blame her a bit.

On the air: Miss Lombard has her pilot's license. Henry King is off for New York in his own plane. Howard Hawks is building a home in Old Mexico—easy commuting, the way he flies. George Brent's selling his ship and giving up flying for good—all due to a premonition of disaster.

Stuart Erwin beefing about that report that, although he played the role of a daredevil pilot in "Ceiling Zero," he's afraid to step into a plane. Not true at all; Erwin usually flies when he travels.

Inspiration for Bing. Bing Crosby really likes to sing. He and Dixie Lee go to church almost every Sunday—always a different church, and usually a little one in the suburbs. Bing dutifully turns to page 50-and-so, and comes in strong on the choruses. Parishioners are pleased, but considerate; they don't pester him to autograph their hymnals.

Authors. Tiffany Thayer, the mystery scribbler, appeared here as the hero in a tabloid version of one of his stories and won critical raves. "Thayer now has an agent, and one eye on the movies. You may be seeing him."

Fellow columnist—Shirley Temple. A short daily feature written under her name is being printed in 10 papers in Scotland.

The Spewacks, screen and stage writing pair, thus dedicated the book publication of their latest "Boy Meets Girl." To Jo Davidson, whose Hospitality and Encouragement Delayed Completion of This Play Three Months.

Not The First Robin

I do not look for Spring when the first robin goes flying past my closed window pane; Nor when the yellow-headed eagle jingles. Unfold their petals to a sudden rain. I place my faith in little stubborn trees That clutch to their brown leaves the winter long. And only shed their drab protecting cloak When katydids begin their brittle song. Then, only then, the witches of the wind Will scurry North beyond the mountain pass— And on the warming breast of Mother Earth Forget-me-nots shall bloom among the grass—Selected. Mr. and Mrs. David Watts and children of Texarkana were Sunday guests of Mrs. Watt's sister, Mrs. Pat Casey and Mr. Casey.

Mrs. Guy Card and little daughter, Joan are spending this week with relatives and friends in Little Rock.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Nunn and son, Claude Jr., spent the week end in Dallas, Texas, guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Parrott.

Miss Edna Roth Watts of Texarkana is spending this week with her aunt, Mrs. Pat Casey and Mr. Casey.

Miss Chatterline Crane spent the week end with home folks in Ozan. Mrs. Max Cox, Mrs. Terrell Cornelius, Mrs. N. W. Denty and Mrs. W. G. Allison were Tuesday visitors in Texarkana. Mrs. Dorsey McRae, Mrs. Mack Stuart, Mrs. W. Y. Foster and Mrs. A. J. Neighbors entertained a number of guests on Monday afternoon at a Vanishing Tea, one of a series that has been given this fall by different members of the Womens Auxiliary of the First Presbyterian church. The home of Mrs. Foster and Miss Mabel Edridge on North Main street furnished the setting for this very delightful affair. The rooms were decorated with seasonal flowers and the tea table was lovely with its lace cover, and centered decoration of crystal grapes flanked by crystal globes, filled with dainty lace fern. White candles burned in crystal holders and Mrs. Dorsey McRae poured tea and coffee. During the study hour a preliminary study on the lesson of The Holy Spirit, the chosen topic for an all day study to be given by the Auxiliary next week, was conducted. During the social hour an old fashioned spelling bee was conducted, with Mrs. J. R. Williams and Mrs. Perry Moses as captains. In a tie, Miss Mamie Twitshell received the favor. The hostesses were assisted by Mrs. W. W. Compton and Mrs. A. C. White, hurst in serving a most tempting salad course. Among the callers were Dr. and Mrs. Thos. Brewster and Mrs. Nellie Turner.

Mrs. S. H. Briant and Mrs. N. T. Jewell returned Tuesday morning from St. Louis, Mo., where Mrs. Briant has been a patient in Barnes hospital. Friends will be glad to know that Mrs. Briant is able to return to her home for convalescence.

Friends will regret to learn that Mrs. Anna Judson is ill at her home on North Elm street.

Sam McMath of San Antonio, Texas, arrived in Hope Tuesday for a visit with his mother, Mrs. Alice McMath and other relatives.

Prescott News in Brief

By DALE M'KINNEY

Gilman Beeler, of Los Angeles, California, made a speech Friday night at the courthouse, about the Townsend recovery plan.

Mr. Beeler told him it would help the old people, and too, how it would end the depression, if it were adopted, because the old people must spend the money they receive, and by so doing this would put a lot of money into circulation. Mr. Beeler said.

Present's new grammar school building is nearing completion and will be ready for use in a few days.

Dorrell Byers and Gene Russell of Hope were visitors in Prescott Sunday. Choir practice will be held at the Methodist church Thursday night at 7:30 by the Epworth League.

Friends of Slaten Beavert will be glad to learn that he is resting better after his long period of illness. Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the home of Mose Cox here late Sunday night.

The Country Doctor

going to need those baby scales sooner than you expected!"

Asa Wyatt, whose brood of youngsters, regularly augmented, had become a sort of symbol even in a region where babies were part of the annual routine, came hurrying aboard, calling, "Doc! Hey, Doc!"

Nurse Kennedy turned to Dr. Luke, resignedly. "Well, I guess it's another Wyatt!" she said quietly.

"Impossible!" spluttered the doctor. "Too soon!"

"Not for her!" said Nurse Kennedy firmly.

"Can you come now, Doc, right away?" implored Wyatt.

"Sure, sure, let's go!" reassured the doctor. And nurse, doctor and the distraught Wyatt descended the gangplank, to a chorus of catcalls and good-natured comment from the lumbermen.

Guernsey Is Second in Buckner Tourney

The Guernsey High School junior boys basketball team took second place in the tournament held last Saturday at Buckner. Spottsville took championship honors.

In their first battle, the Yellow-jackets of Guernsey defeated Walker, 20 to 16. Guernsey lost the next two battles, dropping games to Spottsville, 26 to 22, and to Fouke, 27 to 12.

After the game that gave Spottsville the trophy, Guernsey met Village and won, 28 to 19. Next, the Hempstead county quintet took a hard-fought game from Emmerson, 19 to 14.

CLUB NOTES

Palmas

The Palmas Home Demonstration club met on February 11th at the home of Mrs. O. B. Rider.

Mrs. Huchett led the devotion. The club sang "America." Mrs. L. E. Kent read a biography of George Washington. Each member answered the roll by telling the history of their oldest piece of furniture.

Miss Alford gave an interesting demonstration on hooked and braided rugs.

Seventeen old members, one new member and one visitor were present. The hostess served plates of delicious sandwiches, cookies, nuts and hot chocolate.

The club will meet in March with Mrs. Hump Huet.

Shower Springs

The Shower Springs Home Demonstration club met Thursday afternoon February 20, at the home of our President, Mrs. H. C. Collier. There were 11 members, including a new member, present.

The meeting was called to order by the president at 2:15 o'clock. After the song "America," Mrs. Blanch Day read the devotion which was "Psalm 100," then she led in prayer.

The roll call was answered by naming the oldest piece of furniture in our home and telling the history of it.

Miss LaVeta England read a brief history on the "Life of George Washington."

Our secretary read the minutes of the last meeting followed by the resignation of our president and secretary as project leaders. We were glad to have Mrs. Olin Cushing join our club and she was appointed poultry leader. Mrs. Inez Huckabee was appointed home management leader.

The project leaders then gave their reports. As Miss Griffin was absent we had no demonstration.

Mrs. V. M. England led a guessing game of which Mrs. J. E. McDowell was winner of the prize.

As the club had not chosen their club project the members then discussed it. We finally chose poultry.

The next meeting will be at Mrs. E. Aaron's home March 19. At that time we will have two demonstra-

Receivership Ills Ignored by Courts

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Condemning what he termed "abuses" in the allowance of receivership fees by federal courts, Senator McAdoo, Democrat, California, Monday proposed to create a special court to try federal judges accused of wrong doing.

His plan, he said, was to authorize the chief justice of the Supreme Court to set up a court of three members, composed of circuit judges, to try accused judges.

Senator Ashurst, Democrat, Arizona, first chairman of the committee, told the senate that "enormous fees" were being allowed by the courts to lawyers and trustees in bankruptcy, receivership and reorganization proceedings.

He placed in the record decisions in 11 cases in which large fees were allowed.

The Southern District Court of New York granted $766,426 for services and $266,284 for expenses of lawyers and others in the Paramount-Public Corporation reorganization. A total of $2,841,031 had been asked of the court for services and $398,796 for expenses.

Another case was the appeal of the RFC in the Second Court from a decision by the Eastern District Court of New York allowing $90,000 to trustees in the Allied Savers Corporation bankruptcy. $75,000 to Goldwater & Flynn, lawyers for the trustee, $10,000 to Robert P. Lewis, lawyer for the bankrupt, and $25,000 to Theodore Stitt referee. The Circuit Court cut the figures, respectively to $14,628, $500,000, $5,000, and the last to an unnamed but sharply reduced sum.

Ozan-St. Paul

The Ozan-St. Paul Home Demonstration club held its regular meeting Friday afternoon, February 21 at the home of Mrs. B. F. Goodlett with 23 regular members, one new member and one visitor present. The new member being Mrs. Chas. Bryant and the visitor Mrs. Grey Carigan.

The roll call was answered by the history of the oldest relic in your home. The devotion was led by Mrs. J. W. Gist. Reports were given on food preservation, food preparation, home management, and poultry.

The demonstration being absent, no demonstration was given, but rug making was discussed.

Following the short business meeting several interesting games and contests were led by Mrs. Floyd Watthens and Miss Alma Hanna. Prizes were won by Mrs. H. O. Stuart, Mrs. Audrey Smead, Mrs. W. D. Jones, and Mrs. S. M. Stuart.

Delicious refreshments were served.

Taxes on beer, wines and liquors consumed in England bring the exchequer approximately $700,000,000 annually.

A RUN threat- ens the U. S. Post office. Department for new commemorative stamps. Organizations with hundredth anniversaries coming on find the stamp idea highly attractive.

DOUBLEDAY

There's the suggestion, for instance, of a stamp to commemorate the 100th anniversary in 1939 of the game of baseball. President Ford Frick, of the National League, proposes the portrait of Abner Doubleday, founder of baseball, as its feature.

The Harvard Stamp Club also wants a stamp commemorating the 200th anniversary of the founding of Harvard.

Other prospects for U. S. stamps are Susan B. Friend to Run for Sen. Borah's Seat

It's Indication That He is Staking All on Presidential Fight

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Conjecture whether Senator Borah of Idaho was "burning all bridges behind him" in his drive for the Republican presidential nomination arose Sunday out of an announcement that a political ally was seeking his senatorial seat.

Ray McGaughey of Boise, Id., a National Franchise leader, independent Republican and for many years a close friend of Borah, made the announcement shortly after a conference with the senator.

Borah declined to comment. Some of his friends saw in the maneuver an indication that he may abandon any claim to the senate seat he has held since 1907 even before the Cleveland convention next June decides his battle for the presidential nomination.

Farmers Dig for Gold After Chores

Georgians Combine Industrial Pursuit With Agriculture

LINCOLNTON, Ga.—(AP)—Earl and Alice Norman believe in diversification of farming interests, so they turned to gold mining as a sideline—profitably. The nine usual chores of agriculture do not demand their energies. They dig gold, right on the old farm place.

It started after they had found gold particles on top of the ground following hard rains.

Then they struck a vein 22 feet deep, obtained a small stamp mill and already have marketed several tons of gold ore.

Fruit stains may be removed by sponging with lemon juice and then washing with hot water. If lemon is not available, borax will be found just as effective.

Back Yard GARDENING on a Budget

Whatever Plant Varieties You Get Be Sure to Buy Only Best Seed

This is the second of a series of articles on gardening by budget.

By PROF. C. H. NISSLEY Extension Horticulturist, M. J. College of Agriculture and Experiment Station, Rutgers University

The real key to growing fine vegetables lies in the seed catalog. High quality seed purchased from a reliable seed house will make those hours spent in weeding seem time well spent when your meals are enhanced by fresh peas, tender beans, and firm, sweet tomatoes, fresh from the vine.

Cheap seeds may be so old that there is no life left in them, or they may be of a badly-mixed variety for planting. Since it helps to know the names of varieties which other gardeners have found satisfactory, some of them are listed here.

Hybrid sweet corn varieties like the Top Cross Bantam or Golden Cross Bantam are resistant to a common disease called "wilt." The ears are 7 to 8 inches long and have golden yellow kernels.

The Bountiful bean is tender and flat, and the Tendergreen is a stringless round-podded variety. If you have a fence for it, the Kentucky Wonder is a good climbing variety.

The Crosby's Egyptian beet is an early spring beet of quality, and the Detroit Dark Red is a late or fall variety.

The Marion Market cabbage is resistant to the dreaded "Yellows" disease and matures early. Where this disease is not serious, the Golden Acre variety is preferred by many. Late varieties of cabbage, as the Danish Ballhead or Flat Dutch, should be selected for kraut or for winter storage purposes.

If your ground is heavy, a short-growing carrot like the Oxheart should be planted, and if your soil is a loam to a sandy loam, then a longer type carrot, such as the Chantenay, will grow well there.

A few hills of cucumbers in the garden will supply an ample quantity for the family. The Early Fortune or any of the White Spine varieties will grow fairly large for slicing and salads. They make good pickles, too, if picked young.

Dependable very early varieties of lettuce are the New York or Wonderful, an iceberg type, and the Big Boston, the butter type. The Grand Rapids variety will supply your table during the hot summer months. This is a looseleaf lettuce, and generally can be grown during the entire season.

There are many varieties of peas, but the World's Record, the Little Marvel, and the Laxtonian are the most popular of the small growing varieties.

When it comes to pepper, the World Beater and the California Wonder are food producers.

The Scarlet Globe radish for early planting and the Icicle variety for summer and early planting are recommended.

Spinach is a spring fall crop and cannot be grown during the heat of the summer. For a spring crop, the regular Savoy variety is recommended, and, for the late crop, the Virginia Safel or the Old Dominion varieties.

Tomatoes of the highest quality are the Marglobe, the Pritchard, and the Rutgers. For a pink tomato, the Globe

Covered Bridges Landmark in Ohio

Over 500 of These Relics of the Horse-and-Buggy Days

COLUMBUS, Ohio—(AP)—Horse and buggy days are gone, but covered bridges—more than 500 of them—are still seeing service in Ohio.

A survey conducted by the Ohio State archaeological and historical society shows that at least 511—and maybe more—of these picturesque spans are in use in the state.

However, the society says covered bridges are being replaced so fast now, after a century or more of service, that there probably won't be one left in another decade.

ing purposes. Turnips are a good family vegetable. They mature in about 50 to 70 days, and may be stored throughout the winter. The Purple Top Globe is a white-flesh variety; Golden Ball or Aberdeen are yellow-flesh varieties.

Huge Refinancing Up to Government

New Bonds to Take Up Old Ones and Furnish Additional Cash

WASHINGTON—(P)—A billion-dollar refinancing program for March was announced Monday by Secretary Morgenthau.

The Treasury head said estimates of federal income pointed to receipts next month of approximately the same as March, 1935, indicating an expectation that the loss in processing taxes will be about offset by increases in other items.

The factor of revised revenue estimates has entered into a revision of the budget undertaken by President Roosevelt, following the invalidation of the processing tax and congressional action ordering payment of the bonds.

March 15 borrowing, Morgenthau announced, will include $450,000,000 to retire securities maturing on that date, $559,000,000 to retire securities maturing April 15 and such new money as may be needed.

Owing to the size of the transaction, some argued, the Treasury head was informing the money market of the burden to be assumed in ample time for it to make preparations.

In taking care of the April maturity in March, the consensus was the Treasury is planning to clear the way for the big borrowing which may attend the payment of the bonus beginning in June.

Romance on Nile Banned by Police

Lovers Prosecuted for Kissing in Public in City of Cairo

CAIRO.—(P)—Egypt may be a land of romance in fiction, but lovers who fall under its spell may find themselves fined or imprisoned.

Police in Cairo and Alexandria enforce a law which forbids "exposure of opposite sex to kiss on public thoroughfares or public property."

One young man, seeking to escape the penalty for kissing his girl on the banks of the Nile one moonlit night, tried to bribe a policeman and was jailed for four days without bail.

Another policeman found that the officer actually had taken six piastres from the youth. The offending officer was dropped from the force and also given a jail sentence.

Democrats Wait for G. O. P. Errors

Republicans Making All the Noise—at Least for the Present

By BYRON PRICE
Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington.

One interesting feature of the current political situation is that Mr. Roosevelt's opponents are making most of the noise.

Daily—sometimes at the rate of several a day—the big guns of the opposition are pouring their attacks on the White House. Now and then Democratic headquarters or some prominent Democrat repel, but for the most part the administration batteries remain silent.

Presumably this is a temporary situation only. With its array of experienced spellbinders, and its exceptionally well equipped publicity staff, it must be supposed that the Democratic organization will come into full action in due course.

There are reasons why, at this stage, it is quite natural for the Republicans to be more vocal than the Democrats. The G. O. P. is in the process of considering who shall be chosen to carry the party banner against Mr. Roosevelt; and each of the aspirants appears anxious to demonstrate how hard he can hit.

On the Democratic side there are reasons also. One of the most potent is the feeling among party leaders that it would be folly to shoot off too much ammunition before it is known who the opposing general will be, and what sort of battleline he will present.

Appears One-Sided
If the present political picture were judged without taking these things into account, it might be possible to conclude that the contest is very one-sided, indeed.

The thundering of the half-dozen Republican presidential candidates alone amounts to a sizeable barrage. Day after day the Liberty League adds its fire unrelentingly, while the Talmadge movement in Georgia chimes in with increasing frequency. The Republican national committee recently has enlarged its publicity bureau, and is more active than ever.

In contrast, Democratic headquarters appears to be saying less and less. Its publicity machinery is working with only a partial staff. Occasionally a big gun lets go but most administration officials, from the President down, seem content to let it go at that.

Recently when Mr. Hoover assailed one of the "new deal" spending agencies, the director of that agency was attending a party at the home of a friend in Washington. Other "new deal" adherents of lesser rank who were present wanted to turn the dial to some dance music; but the responsible official mentioned objected, and listened carefully to Mr. Hoover's every word. No reply whatever, either private or public, was forthcoming.

Golden Silence
Quite evidently the Roosevelt organization is relying on the soundness of two old political maxims.

One is that, in any political game, it is easy to overplay the hand. With the election still eight months away, say the Democratic strategists, a constant torrent of denunciation from the opposition may get to be an old story to the country, and have a natural kick-back.

The other maxim is that, in politics as elsewhere, silence often is golden in results. Calvin Coolidge ably dem-

Marine Zoo to Be Built by Miami

Will Allow Visitors to Watch Sharks in Their Natural Habitat

MIAMI, Fla.—(P)—Captain W. E. Young, shark hunter of 35 years' experience, is in Miami to survey available locations for a new type marine zoo.

The veteran shark hunter said the zoo will be something new, and that its plans have been approved by Dr. C. H. Townsend, director of the New York Aquarium, and many of the foremost ichthyologists in the country. "It will be built in a shallow ocean spot and comprise a series of pens accessible to the water," he stated. "Down the center of the two largest pens there will be floating steel compartments with windows below the level of the water from which visitors may watch the fish in the pens."

unstarted how golden it really can be. Governor Landon, among the several Republican candidates this year, manifestly is proceeding on the Coolidge theory as nearly as circumstances will permit.

There are Republicans who believe both of these maxims faulty; and for proof they point to the situation four years ago. Then it was the Democrats who began the bombardment long in advance and kept it up without success. It was the Republicans who sat back and waited—until it was too late.

So it is possible to draw any conclusion you desire.

Students Trained in Self-Confidence

GRINNELL, Iowa.—(P)—A course in self-salesmanship is the newest educational wrinkle in Grinnell college's curriculum.

Its first object is to help students evaluate themselves and then to "put their best foot forward" when seeking employment for which they are fitted, explains Prof. W. R. Boorman.

Prospective graduates will be brought into contact with employers, who are being asked to make minute talks to the class. The students will receive advice on how to apply for jobs and how to conduct interviews.

Ice Business Is Best in Winter!

But It's in Rio Grande Valley, Whose Truck Crops Must Be Iced

SAN BENITO, Tex.—(P)—Ice plants in the sub-tropical Lower Rio Grande valley are busiest in winter.

The demand is not for domestic consumption but to keep early fruits and vegetables fresh en route to northern markets. Ice-making factories hum until late spring, but when citizens begin to seek the shade and vegetation droops, production will dwindle. Fall and winter crops of farm and orchard then will have gone up the long road to consumers.

Thousands of tons yearly are used for icing refrigerator cars. Every town in this section has one or more icing docks at which cars are serviced.

Christies Scotch Ships
GLASGOW, Scotland.—(P)—Sherry has replaced champagne in christening new ships at Dumbarton, one of the largest shipyards on the Clyde, because sherry bottles are thinner and break more easily. A hitch in the launching which might cause fears among superstitious future passengers, thus is avoided.

"All But the Walls"
GREENSBORO, N. C.—(P)—The operator of a grocery store here reported to police that thieves entered the establishment and "took all but the walls."

Luckies—a light smoke
OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO—"IT'S TOASTED"

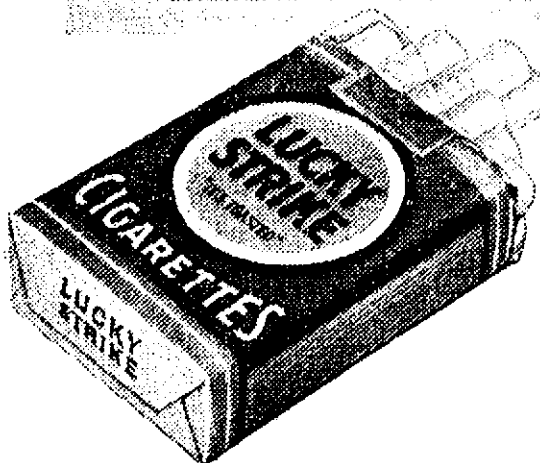

CENTER LEAVES

The top leaves of all tobacco plants tend to give a definitely harsh, alkaline taste. The bottom leaves tend to acidity in the smoke. It is only the center leaves which approach in nature the most palatable acid-alkaline balance. In LUCKY STRIKE Cigarettes the center leaves are used.

LUCKIES ARE LESS ACID!

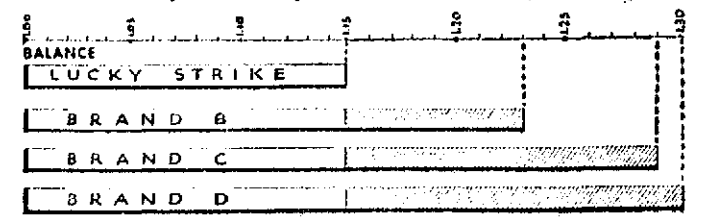

Recent chemical tests show* that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%.
